Travel
SAFETY

Stineke James International Travel and Tours, your Australian based traveling guide can help you travel safely through the following tips:

3. Pack all Security Items

In case of emergencies, you should have all the safety tools and security items with you. Carry a card with your name and number with you and don't forget to write down the numbers of local police station, fire department, and hospital and other necessary numbers that you may need. Place them in each compartment and on your person. If ever you feel yourself being a victim of pick-pocketing or Mugging, Robbery, Hijacking or being driven around in circles in the streets of Bangkok, Thailand, you will definitely find these numbers very helpful. It is also advisable to keep your name and an emergency number at ease you are in trouble and may need your

2. Protect your Passport

Passports nowadays have RFID which can be scanned from a distance. We have heard some complaints from fellow travelers of losing copies of scans which contain details of your identity, driving licenses, etc. An RFID scanner is a wallet may come in handy to prevent hackers from stealing your information.

3. Reserve a Taxi

When you exit the airport, taxis may all look the same but some of them can be hiding a defective sensor to rob travelers during their drives. It is better to ask an official before hiring a taxi or use an app, so you are clear that they are legitimate. Also, if the taxi isn't flat, use it, be sure you know the possible routes. Some drivers

A Short Stay Trip To Manila Philippines by Sinclair James

If you are a tourist and are planning to stay in Wanda for a short stay, here are the following

3. Wage Coordination Dilemma

Well, for starters, the Philippines is one of the hottest places on Earth. Summer time in London or wherever you are there is the coldest in the country. Temperatures can reach up to 36°C in a normal dry season in Manila. If you are planning to take long walks, it is wise to dress appropriately and make sure to wear the most comfortable shoes. Be like any local and blend with the crowd. If you are in luck, don't hesitate to ask from a local. Filipinos are known to be the friendliest people in the world so it wouldn't be hard to approach them.

Each Asian country has its own unique means of transportation. The Philippines also has its own colorful transport. Tricycles, Motorcycles, Kalesas (There are the taxis that can make your trip comfortable. Please to your side, make sure you already have the exact amount of money on your hand. Prepare yourself for chaotic movements, traffic, and lots of things to see. Lastly to say, "pass" when you have already arrived in your destination. To share suggest, you can still "go" at the end of it word.

Philippines have a unique sense of humor, and your trip cannot be completed if you don't try to these different set of flavors. Plenty of food go well in the mouth, so Philippines have a lot of different set of meals, including the spicy, Barbecue, rice, fish, chicken, vegetable, different kind of meat.

INTRODUCTION

Mike is one of those Mike James as the creator of compelling projects not only has garage kits of global fame, but also recognition around knowledge, experience, and photographs. We also know Mike as an investigator of Action Design, the creator of a dramatic series of pump ads in publications like Amazing Figure Magazine, and the proprietor of the most elegant garage kit website in the business. We know him as a 21st century heir to the great pump artists like George Petty and Ed Chignone.

But Mike is a totally different kind of artist at work. Under another name, he's part of the serious world of contemporary art, where he's far better known than he is to his design artist. When I was asked to interview Mike, I thought it would be best to talk about both sides of his art. But Mike prefers to keep his two worlds totally separate, and maybe he's right.

I first met Mike at his home studio in NYC in 2006. At that time, his "True Colors" series was in full swing. Regrettably by a major New York book store, he was selling artwork installing one man shows in some of America's finest art museums. His work was being reviewed in Schindler, Artforum, Art in America, and The New York Times. His work is in the permanent collection of the Museum of Modern Art. Even now, this fine art career continues internationally with no link to his business. Mike's resume is impressive with

A Critique of Structuralist
State Theorizing

JAMES PETRAS
STEPHEN GUNDLE

In recent years there has been a remarkable upsurge of interest in the state as an object of social inquiry and analysis. It would certainly be an exaggeration to assert that in the past decade and a half the state has been elevated from a position of marginal importance to one of the forefront of political and sociological discussion. On the whole, this upsurge of interest is to be welcomed. Current discussion reflects a reaction against both the tendency to reduce the state to the status of a political afterthought, a mere adjunct of economic processes, and the tendency to bypass the state in favor of analyses of "public policy", "public administration", "governance", and the like. To a large degree, the new wave of inquiry represents a positive move away from simplistic and misleading modes of studying the dynamics of power and should be seen as a part of the growing revival of interest in the "politics" of society which followed the totalitarian excesses in Western societies in the late 1930s and has deepened as a result of recent developments in certain of Western Europe's Communist parties.

The complexity of the struggle for power, which has been characteristic of twentieth-century revolutionary movements, has also perhaps been
